The History Teacher publishes articles of three general types: (1) reports on promising new classroom techniques, educational programs, curricula, and methods of evaluating instructional effectiveness; (2) analyses of important interpretations, leading historians, historiographical problems, and recent trends in specific fields of historical research; and (3) critical review essays on audiovisual materials, textbooks, and other secondary works suitable for classroom use.
The History Teacher also publishes, as regular departments, reviews of audiovisual materials, textbooks, supplementary readers, and other printed classroom materials, with evaluations of their scholarly reliability, formats, and effectiveness of presentation. Reviews are commissioned in advance. Readers interested in contributing reviews should advise the Editor of their qualifications and fields of specialization.

The History Teacher does not have its own style sheet. Contributors should follow the forms of citation customary in the historical profession. Manuscripts must be double spaced (including all quotations and endnotes), and submitted in triplicate or electronically. Authors are encouraged to supply or recommend illustrations that would enhance the effectiveness of their work in print. Final decisions on manuscripts usually require a minimum of 10-15 weeks. We cannot return articles which have not been accepted unless a self-addressed, stamped envelope was enclosed with the article. The editors, who are the final judges of matters concerning grammar, usage, and other conventions, will edit contributions to conform to the normal manner of presentation in The History Teacher.

Correspondence regarding contributions to The History Teacher and materials for review should be sent to the Editor, The History Teacher; California State University, Long Beach; 1250 Bellflower Boulevard; Long Beach, CA 90840-1601.

The Society for History Education affirms that it does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, national origin, age, or sex. Inquiries concerning the application of Title IX and other federal and state statutes may be referred to the Affirmative Action Officer; California State University, Long Beach; 1250 Bellflower Boulevard; Long Beach, CA 90840.

The History Teacher disclaims responsibility for statements, either of fact or opinion, made by contributors.

The History Teacher is abstracted or indexed in Historical Abstracts, Education Abstracts, Professional Development, Academic Search, America: History and Life, and the U.S. Dept. of Education’s ERIC.

Gustavo Carrera received his M.A. in History from Ashland University. He chairs the History Department at Buckingham Browne & Nichols School, where he has led several curriculum reform and pedagogical/professional development projects, and where he co-directs the new faculty mentoring program.

Ingrid Mundt is a student at Capitol Hill Gifted and Talented Magnet School in St. Paul, Minnesota. She was awarded first place in the Junior Paper competition for National History Day 2017 for her paper, “Margaret Sanger, Taking a Stand for Birth Control.” Mundt was also named “Most Philosophical 5th Grader in America” during the 2014 Kids Philosophy Slam for her composition, “Truth vs. Beauty.”

Stephanie Reitzig of Niwot High School in Longmont, Colorado won first place in the Senior Paper competition for National History Day 2017 for her paper, “‘By the Code of Humanity’: Ralph Carr Takes a Stand for Japanese American Rights in World War II.” A leader in Model United Nations, Interact, and the National Honor Society, Reitzig has also received a Centennial Award from the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library’s Profiles in Courage essay contest and an Honorable Mention in the National Center for Women in Information Technology Aspirations in Computing.

Carole Srole (Ph.D., University of California, Los Angeles), Christopher Endy (Ph.D., The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill), and Birte Pfleger (Ph.D., University of California, Irvine) teach history at California State University, Los Angeles. Srole has published five articles on teaching and received the AHA’s Eugene Asher Distinguished Teaching Award. As Special Assistant to the President at CSULA, Endy has led faculty programs on in-class peer mentoring. Pfleger advises CSULA’s student history journal, which has won multiple Gerald D. Nash awards.

Susannah Walker received her Ph.D. in History from Carnegie Mellon University. She was an Associate Professor at Virginia Wesleyan College before joining Buckingham Browne & Nichols in 2012. Her research interests and previous publications are in African American history, U.S. women’s and gender history, and the history of consumer culture.
Andrea Walton received her Ph.D. in History and Education from Teachers College, Columbia University. She is an Associate Professor in the Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies at Indiana University Bloomington. Walton is currently writing a book on the history of philanthropy in U.S. higher education.

William Weber (Harvard College and the University of Chicago) taught modern European history at California State University, Long Beach from 1968 to 2007. He supervised student teachers, participated in the California History-Social Science Project, and was Vice-President of the American Historical Association for the Teaching Division, 2001-2004. His publications include Music and the Middle Class, Rise of Musical Classics in Eighteenth-Century England, and Great Transformation of Musical Taste: Concert Programming from Haydn to Brahms.
