The History Teacher publishes articles of three general types: (1) reports on promising new classroom techniques, educational programs, curricula, and methods of evaluating instructional effectiveness; (2) analyses of important interpretations, leading historians, historiographical problems, and recent trends in specific fields of historical research; and (3) critical review essays on audiovisual materials, textbooks, and other secondary works suitable for classroom use.

The History Teacher also publishes reviews of audiovisual materials, books, supplementary readers, and other printed classroom materials, with evaluations of their scholarly reliability, formats, and effectiveness of presentation. Reviews are commissioned in advance. Readers interested in contributing reviews should advise the Editor of their qualifications and fields of specialization.

Submission guidelines for The History Teacher are available on the final page of this issue. Additional information for contributing authors is available at <https://www.thehistoryteacher.org/contributing>.

Correspondence regarding contributions to The History Teacher and materials for review should be sent to the Editor, The History Teacher; California State University, Long Beach; 1250 Bellflower Boulevard; Long Beach, CA 90840-1601.

Ciara Breathnach is an Associate Professor in History at the University of Limerick and an Irish Research Council Laureate Award holder. She has published widely on Irish health, mortality, socio-economic, gender, and cultural history.

Julie de Chantal (Ph.D., University of Massachusetts Amherst) is an Assistant Professor at Georgia Southern University, where she teaches African American history. Her research focuses on African American women’s social justice activism in twentieth-century Boston. She is revising her book manuscript, Just Ordinary Mothers: Black Women’s Grassroots Organizing in Boston, from the Vote to the Busing Crisis, and is author of “Before Boston’s Busing Crisis: Operation Exodus, Grassroots Organizing, and Motherhood, 1965-1967.”

Sinéad Keogh is the Digital Services Librarian at the Glucksman Library, University of Limerick, where she manages the Institutional Repository, the digitization unit, and the Digital Library.

Jason Lustig is a Lecturer and Israel Institute Teaching Fellow at the Schusterman Center for Jewish Studies at the University of Texas at Austin. He received his Ph.D. in History from the University of California, Los Angeles, and has held the Harry Starr Fellowship in Judaica at Harvard University and the Gerald Westheimer Early Career Fellowship at the Leo Baeck Institute. He is the author of the forthcoming book, A Time to Gather: Archives and the Control of Jewish Culture (Oxford University Press, 2021).

Daniel Moreau is a Professor at the Department of Preschool and Elementary School Teaching at the Université de Sherbrooke. He holds a doctorate in Education and is a former high school teacher. His research activities include didactic focus on social studies in kindergarten and elementary education, lexicometric analysis of social studies curriculum, and historical thinking and learning. He is currently working on the didactics of professional development in teacher education, particularly in the development of teacher self-efficacy.

Kirsten Mulrennan is an Archivist in Special Collections and Archives at the Glucksman Library, University of Limerick, and an Honorary Fellow of the History Department at UL. She is responsible for outreach, exhibitions, teaching, as well as student and faculty engagement. Her doctoral research, “Issues in Archiving Historic Medical Records in Ireland” (2013), was funded by the Irish Research Council.

Jonathan Smith completed a Bachelor’s degree in Special Education as well as an M.A. and Ph.D. in Educational Psychology at the Université de Montréal. He is a Professor at the Department of Preschool and Elementary School Teaching at the Université de Sherbrooke and his research primarily focuses on motivation to learn.

Brigid E. Vance is an Associate Professor of History at Lawrence University in Appleton, Wisconsin. She received her doctorate from Princeton University in 2012. Her research focuses on the intellectual and socio-cultural history of dreams and dream divination in late Ming China. In 2020, Vance was awarded Lawrence University’s Award for Excellent Teaching by an Early Career Faculty Member.
